

FRANCOIS COINTREAU

François Cointreau, cinquième génération de la famille qui a créé la célèbre liqueur, a préféré suivre son inclination pour la voiture et établi un atelier de restauration. Une décision qui fait le bonheur de ceux qui veulent faire restaurer leur machine dans les règles de l'art. François sait aussi prendre le volant pour participer aux compétitions historiques... Cet amoureux des automobiles qui sait par quel côté les prendre et leur redonner leur éclat... Il pourra on ne peut mieux les juger lors de Chantilly Arts & Elegance Richard Mille !

François Cointreau is the fifth generation of the family who created the famed eponymous French liquor. Nevertheless, François has preferred to follow his own inclination for automotive instead of joining the family business. It is certainly a pity for the company located in Angers (centre of France), but François can be proud of his decision: any fine car collector who wants to have his car restored right as it was originally comes to visit him to his workshop established in the region. François Cointreau knows how to pamper the cars, but also how to drive them to participate in historic car events. This automobile amateur who understands how they work and will for sure be a wise judge for Chantilly Arts & Elegance Richard Mille!
